A WEDDING SURVEY

A recent survey into wedding days revealed a startling fact:

“The reception is the part of the day that the bride, groom and guests remember the most”

If you think about it, it's obvious. People traditionally invite more people to the evening reception, so it's important that it goes well.

“A DISCO WILL MAKE OR BREAK YOUR EVENING”

Let's face it, not all crowds are party animals and willing to get on the dance floor right from the first track. It's a nightmare for a bride and groom. No one dancing, disco lights flashing and DJ playing 'YMCA'.

“WE WON'T LET THAT HAPPEN”

Our presenters are experienced and professional, with a wealth of knowledge of how to deal with every situation, we can provide entertainment ourselves, or motivate the crowd. We don't use light boxes, so we can't hide. Our presenters will move around the venue (if the occasion requires it) talking to people, creating an atmosphere, doing what we do best, entertaining!

more than just a disco

A PARTY TO REMEMBER

Try to remember the last Party you attended. Was it six months ago? A year? Perfect, now try to remember what food was served during the evening meal? Tough one right? How about this, do you remember the main dish you got? Maybe, maybe not? Now here is an easy one, did you have a good time? Did you dance all night? Was the entertainment great? Or was it horrible?

MEMORIES

If you are like most people, chances are you'll remember the entertainment more than anything at a party. Entertainment leaves a lasting memory after any function. So it only stands to reason that the guests you invite to your event will have the same impression.

Long after the memory of how your flowers looked has faded from their minds, long after they've forgotten about those invitations you sent out, they'll remember what a great time they had dancing and celebrating the night away.
